Like a child who ignores His Father
I think my way is better
I start walking down a road not knowing where it's going to lead

Like stubborn sheep I tend to wander
Trying to find that greener pasture
When everything I'd ever want was underneath my feet

You always know, You always know
You always know, what's best for me

Sometimes it's just not clear to me
What on earth you're doing
But I'm learning I can trust you when nothing makes sense to me

Like a good Father, You like to see me prosper
You like to see me doing well, doing well
Like a good Mother You like to see me prosper
You like to see me doing well, doing well
Your thoughts are higher Your ways are so much greater
I can trust you through it all, through it all
