

Gary Meggs "Mama Green"

Writer: Gary Meggs

Licensing: © 2019 Gary Meggs (BMI)

When I was just a little boy, Oh what a wondrous joy
To ride down south to go to church with my grandma Mama Green Early on those Sunday Morns, we'd walk through town past all the stores
It seemed like a long, long way, At least it did in the good old days

All her friends were gathered outside as we got to church and socialized
We sat right down on those wooded seats, the floor just didn't quite reach my feet Then we started to sing those songs, you know the ones we grew up on
You can hear them in your heart today, their good enough for them to say, Still good enough for them to say

Give me that old time religion, that old time religion, give me that old time religion it's good enough for me.
Give me that old time religion, that old time religion, give me that old time
religion it's good enough for me
Amen, Amen, Amen, Amen Amen
Amen, Amen, Amen, Amen

Well, hallelujah and then Amen I can hear him say it over and over again Every time the preacher said praise the Lord it's a joyous day so he preached some more.
And he asks us every time we were there to trust the Lord and be prepared
I can still hear the invitation song Lord take my life and lead me on, Take my life and lead me own

Give me that old time religion, that old time religion, give me that old time
religion it's good enough for me.
Give me that old time religion, that old time religion, give me that old time
religion it's good enough for me
Amen, Amen, Amen, Amen Amen
Amen, Amen, Amen, Amen